

University of Delaware Library, Museums and Press is thrilled to be able to offer access to our print materials, films, and equipment, while supporting our community's health and safety via our pickup service.

To use the service, start at the catalog to discover the item that you wish to borrow. Open the full record of the item, and keep this handy. You may want to open a new tab in your browser and navigate to the library's website.

Once on the homepage, click on the blue "Library Pickup Service" button. News and information about the service can be found on this page, as well as a link to the request form. You will be prompted to login using your UDel ID and password. Use the form to select the type of item you hope to borrow. In this case, it is a film. You may need to navigate back to your first tab in order to copy and paste the call number/title of the item into the form.

After clicking "Submit", you will see a confirmation that your request has been submitted. When your item is ready for pick up, you will receive a message at your UD email address.

If your item is a print book in our regular circulating collection, you also have the option of requesting these books through our "Get This For Me" service right through our catalog. Simply search for your item, open the full record, and use the "Get This For Me" link in the center of the page. You will then be brought to your Interlibrary Loan account page. Check that the book's information has been imported correctly, and submit the request. You will be contacted via your UD email when your item is ready to be picked up at the pick up service.

If you have any questions at all about the pickup service or any other aspect of using the library, please contact us via the "Ask the Library" link on our homepage. Librarians are standing by to help with any questions that you may have.

Happy researching!
