Study Smart - Top Reasons to Use the Library

Read and research online 24/7 The University of Delaware Library subscribes to over 37,000 electronic journals and magazines which are available 24/7 to all University students, faculty and staff.

Find information quickly and easily Over 370 databases speed research with links to full-text articles via "Get It" buttons. Email or text or chat online with professional librarians via AskRef Live!

Discover and borrow more than 2.8 million printed Library volumes, or more than 25,000 videos. University of Delaware students, faculty and staff may identify other research materials from around the world via WorldCat Local to borrow through interlibrary loan.

Read nearly 410,000 electronic books that cover titles first published from the 1600s to today.

Create bibliographies with RefWorks The Library subscribes to a web-based product called RefWorks that any University of Delaware user can use 24/7 to download references, create bibliographies for paper, develop reading lists and more.

Use Library computers or bring your laptops More than 200 computers, 200 wired laptop connections and wireless access with electric outlets nearby are available throughout the Morris Library.

Create multimedia -- video, audio, graphics and more! The Student Multimedia Design Center provides state-of-the-art capability for course projects and creativity. Located on the Lower Level of the Morris Library, it has 80 computers, multimedia software, 6 studios and 2 hands-on instruction rooms. Equipment for loan includes cameras, digital voice recorders, laptops and iPads.

Access to an extensive film and video collection The Film and Video Collection Department on the Lower Level has over 25,000 titles covering a broad range of subjects including educational, documentary, special interest and feature films. It also has viewing facilities capable of playing a variety of media formats.

See original manuscripts, rare books and unique materials that bring course work to life Read and study diaries and letters of adventurers and Civil War soldiers, 18th and 19th century ship logs, rare literary, historical, and scientific books and much more.

Work with your group in the Library which provides a place for students to work together with classmates and study groups on projects and research.

Study until 2 a.m. in the Morris Library Sunday through Thursday nights, during the fall and spring semesters.

Study 24/7 in the Library Commons, just inside the front door of the Morris Library, and find food and beverages in the Bleecker St. café.

Greetings,

Welcome to the University of Delaware Library, which includes the Morris Library and three branch libraries.

This is an exciting time for the University of Delaware Library, as more and more students are using the services, facilities and collections of the Library, both onsite and remotely. The Morris Library is also a favorite place to study and is open until 2 a.m. Sunday through Thursday nights during both the fall and spring semesters.

New technologies allow students and faculty to

- have remote access to collections 24/7
- ask questions of reference librarians who are subject specialists via text messaging, email or live chat
- link to the Library via Facebook and Twitter
- create multimedia in the Library's state-of-the-art Student Multimedia Design Center with studios, workstations and cameras for loan
- browse in e-books online or hundreds of thousands of books on the shelves

Electronic journals, databases and e-books are licensed by the Library and are available for research and instruction and provide millions of documents and references available only by subscription and not freely on the Internet. Examples are large databases like the Web of Science, JSTOR and the new Scopus; image databases like ARTstor; and comprehensive worldwide resources such as WorldCat Local with its links to over 232 million books and 952 million article citations.

The Library also has created more than 220 online Research Guides which are excellent places to begin research on a specific topic.

Please ask for assistance of Library staff at any service desk or online.

May your Library experience be abundant with enrichment and scholarly achievement!

Research Guides

Research Guides help facilitate research and study for faculty and students. Librarians have created customized guides on a variety of topics, which provide links to appropriate books, databases and websites. Research Guides also include interactive features, such as a reference chat box that allows users to chat live with a librarian. From the Library home page, users can select Research Guides or go to guides.lib.udel.edu

The screenshot shows the University of Delaware Library's Research Guides for Education. The page features a navigation menu with categories like Home, General Resources, Books, Databases/Articles, Video Resources, Statistics, Directories, and Tests and Measures. A search bar is prominently displayed. The main content area is titled 'Education' and includes a 'Welcome, Education Scholars!' message. It lists various resources such as 'General Resources: Online and print reference sources such as encyclopedias, dictionaries and handbooks,' 'Books: Introduction to using the Library's online catalog to find education-related resources,' 'Databases/Articles: Databases are one of the most efficient ways to search through journal literature to discover articles,' 'Statistics: Resources provided by the US government and other agencies which report education-related statistics,' 'Directories: Listings of schools and educational programs,' and 'Tests and Measures: Information about tests including psychological measures and standardized instruments.' A sidebar on the left contains 'Related Guides' and 'From Off Campus' sections. A 'Subject Librarian' profile for Meg Grotti is also visible, including contact information and a photo.

This Education Guide is one of more than 220 guides in many disciplines created by the Library.

For Users with Disabilities

Users with disabilities have physical access to the Morris Library through the main entrance ramp and power-assisted doors. Closed captioning is available on designated video stations in the Film and Video Collection Department on the Lower Level of the Morris Library. The Assistive Technology Center on the First Floor is equipped with six computers with Internet access, special application software and large screen monitors. These computers have Windows 2010 with an accessibility package incorporating a magnifier, narrator, on-screen keyboard, high contrast and other assistive modification selections. For assistance or an orientation to the Assistive Technology Center, users may contact the Reference and Instructional Services Department at 302-831-2432.

More information may be found by clicking on Users with Disabilities under the information column located at the bottom of the library page at www.lib.udel.edu

RefWorks — Organize References Online!

Managing references and creating bibliographies for research papers have always been time-consuming, complex tasks. RefWorks at www2.lib.udel.edu/database/refworks.html will save time and make the task easier. This web-based citation manager allows creation of a personal database by importing references from online databases. These references are used in automatically formatting a paper and its bibliography in seconds.

The University of Delaware Library subscribes to RefWorks for all UD users and offers workshops throughout the year covering the basics of setting up a RefWorks account, exporting citations from research databases and importing the citations to a personal RefWorks account. Additional workshops cover the Write-N-Cite feature, which makes it easy to insert properly formatted citations into an MS Word document.

Information regarding RefWorks workshops is available at guides.lib.udel.edu/workshops

RefWorks is listed with 360 other Library databases. Users should first log on to a database to search and then log on to RefWorks to import the citations they select.

Library Commons, Bleecker St. Café and 24-hour Study

The Commons, located just inside the main entrance of the Morris Library, contains tables and chairs, the Bleecker St. café, vending machines and both wired and wireless Internet access. The Commons is accessible from the terrace on the north side of the Morris Library and from the main entrance of the Morris Library. The Commons is open 24 hours a day for study during fall and spring semesters. Users may call 302-831-BOOK or go to www2.lib.udel.edu/hours for Library hours. Bleecker St. café information can be found at www.campusdish.com/en-US/CSE/Delaware/Locations/BleeckerSt.htm

To preserve Library collections, equipment and facilities, Library users should not bring food beyond the double glass doors of the Morris Library. Closed or resealable drink containers are permitted. With the financial assistance of Dining Services, patrolling Public Safety staff help the Library to maintain an atmosphere conducive to studying and reading.

How to Print from Library Computers

All Library computers on the Lower Level and First Floor have networked printers. Print jobs are released from Print Release Stations located near Library printers after swiping to pay with either a valid University of Delaware ID card (i-card) or a Library Copy Card.

Library Copy Cards may be purchased for $1 at the Student Multimedia Design Center desk or from a dispenser on the First Floor. Value is in the form of “FLEX” dollars and may be added to both cards at the Student Multimedia Design Center desk or at the Value Transfer Station, both located on the Lower Level. It is $.05 for single-sided prints and $.04 per side for double-sided prints, with double-sided being the print default. Printing from DELCAT, the Library online catalog, is available at no charge.

Join the University of Delaware Library Associates

The University of Delaware Library Associates, a “friends of the library” group, supports Library collections and programs through contributions from individual and corporate members. The Library Associates contributes to the University of Delaware cultural community by sponsoring three events each year to which all members of the Library Associates are invited. An exhibition opening, an annual dinner with a lecture and a faculty lecture in the spring are usually held each year.

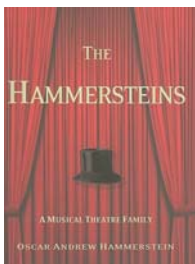

All members of the University community, including students, are invited to join the Library Associates. Annual dues begin at $35 with a special rate for students at $5. Membership information is available via email at UDLA@udel.edu, by calling 302-831-2231 or at www2.lib.udel.edu/udla

Group Study Rooms in the Morris Library

The Morris Library has 31 small Group Study Rooms available for the use of students on a first-come, first-served basis. Group Study Rooms, which are located on every floor of the Morris Library, hold from four to twelve students, have electrical outlets and have data connections for laptop use. The purpose of the Group Study Rooms is to provide a location for student group discussion and collaborative learning relating to the curriculum. The rooms are not available for meetings, for formal classroom instruction, for social purposes or for any purpose other than group study. The rooms are unlocked at all times. The Morris Library map is helpful in locating Group Study Rooms.

Forthcoming Event

The 2014 Annual Dinner of the University of Delaware Library Associates, the “friends group” of the University of Delaware Library, will be held on Thursday, April 10, 2014, starting at 6 p.m. with the hospitality hour, followed by the dinner and program at 7 p.m. in Arsh Hall, University of Delaware, Wilmington.

The featured speaker will be Oscar Andrew “Andy” Hammerstein III, author of The Hammersteins: A Musical Theatre Family. Oscar Andrew “Andy” Hammerstein III is a writer, lecturer, painter and family historian and he is the grandson of the famous lyricist Oscar Hammerstein II. This event is open to the public with a paid dinner reservation. Interested persons may request to be on the printed invitation mailing list by sending an email to UDLA@udel.edu or by calling 302-831-2231. Price information will be available later in the printed invitation.

Borrowing Books

- ▶ Books from the University of Delaware Library collection may be borrowed from the Circulation and Reserve Desk in the Morris Library and any of the branch libraries.
- ▶ A valid University of Delaware ID card is required for borrowing. The individual associated with the ID card is solely responsible for all materials borrowed on his or her card and is liable for overdue fines and charges for lost and damaged materials. ID cards are non-transferable.
- ▶ Overdue notices, recall notices and item available notices for current UD students, faculty and staff are sent via email.
- ▶ All Library materials must be checked out before they can be taken from the Library. All Library users are subject to the inspection of all materials at the exit gate prior to leaving the Morris Library.
- ▶ All items in circulation may be recalled if needed by another researcher. Recall request forms are available within DELCAT, at the Circulation and Reserve Desk and on the Library web under Forms. Borrowing privileges are temporarily suspended if a borrower has an overdue recalled book.
- ▶ Items not requested by other users may be renewed as often as needed. Borrowers with ten or more books overdue will have their borrowing privileges temporarily suspended until the overdue material is renewed or returned.

Complete circulation policy information is available on the Library web. Library users may click on Circulation under Services, or go directly to Circulation Policies at www.lib.udel.edu/ud/circ/circpoln.htm on the Library web.

Renewing Books

University of Delaware students, faculty and staff can view and renew their Library materials online.

- ▶ From the Library web, click on “Books I Have Checked Out.”
- ▶ Enter your UDeNet ID and password to review your account information and renew your Library materials.

Detailed information on using “Books I Have Checked Out” can be found at www.lib.udel.edu/ud/circ/has.htm

Interlibrary Loan (ILL) items do not appear in “Books I Have Checked Out.” Library users may view and renew their ILL items by logging into their ILL account at udel.illiad.oclc.org/illiad/logon.html

Course Reserves & Electronic Reserves

The University of Delaware Library provides on-site course reserve and electronic course reserve services to support class instruction. On-site course reserve materials submitted by faculty are made available at the Circulation and Reserve Desk in the Morris Library or in the branch libraries. Guidelines are available at www.lib.udel.edu/ud/reserve/faculty.html under On-Site Reserves.

In electronic course reserves, the Library scans materials submitted by faculty and posts the digital images for registered students via DELCAT. Faculty interested in providing electronic access to course reserve readings may go to www.lib.udel.edu/ud/reserve/semester.html for more information.

All reserve reading lists are available in DELCAT under the Search Course Reserves section.

Interlibrary Loan

Looking for articles and books that are available only at another library? The University of Delaware Library offers Interlibrary Loan (ILL) to assist users in gaining access to materials owned by other libraries in the United States and abroad. This service is available to University of Delaware students, faculty and staff. Registered users may track the status of their requests, view requested documents in PDF format and more.

Most Interlibrary Loan requests have a fast turnaround time. Eighty percent of articles requested through ILL are delivered to users online within two business days. Most books, DVDs, microfilm and other materials are available for pickup within two weeks of the request.

Logging into the system requires creating an ILL account. First-time users go to <https://udel.illiad.oclc.org/illiad/logon.html> and follow the directions on that page. First-time users need to log in with their UDeNet ID and password to confirm eligibility for ILL services, and then select a username and password for their ILL account.

Information about Interlibrary Loan and hours of service may be found by contacting the Interlibrary Loan office at 302-831-2236, emailing ill@winsor.lib.udel.edu or visiting www.lib.udel.edu/ud/ill

Reference Service and Individual Consultation

A Library visit may begin with a stop at the Reference Desk on the First Floor of the Morris Library. The desk is staffed by professional reference librarians who assist researchers with database searching or with identifying appropriate Library resources.

Professional reference librarians are also subject specialists and are available to meet with students, faculty and staff to provide assistance in identifying appropriate electronic and print resources for coursework or personal research. Librarians can also demonstrate and discuss new Library resources and services. Library users can call the Reference Desk at 302-831-2965 or contact the appropriate subject specialist librarian at www2.lib.udel.edu/usered/subj.htm to make an appointment. Library users may consult page 14 of this publication for a list of subject specialist librarians.

Online Reference Services

Need help with selecting databases or want tips on searching DELCAT, WorldCat Local, Library databases or the Internet? Go online and Ask a Librarian! There are three ways that University of Delaware faculty, staff and students can obtain online assistance from reference librarians, who are available to provide answers to quick factual questions and assistance with sources or search strategies.

► AskRef: Email Reference

Send an email to AskRef and receive a reply within 24 hours (Monday through Friday). Questions may be sent using the AskRef form that is linked from the Ask a Librarian web page.

► AskRef Live!

AskRef Live! is a service that allows the UD community to chat with librarians. The chat service is offered through the Ask a Librarian web page and the Research Guides.

► Text Messaging

Text a question to a librarian by using a cell phone and sending a message to 302-360-8747.

University of Delaware Library Instructional Services and Library Workshops

Librarians offer assistance to faculty and instructors by providing instruction sessions that are tailored to meet the specific goals of each course. Faculty in all disciplines who assign projects requiring library research are invited to schedule a guest lecture by a librarian for their students. One may visit www2.lib.udel.edu/usered for more information on library instruction, or to schedule a class.

The Library also offers workshops throughout each semester which showcase some of the powerful research tools that are available at the Morris Library. Workshops provide instruction on individual tools such as databases or on topics of interest such as research funding opportunities. The Library also provides workshops on multimedia programs through the semester. Some examples of workshops include:

- Introduction to RefWorks and RefWorks Advanced
- Research Funding Online
- Introduction to Film and Video Collection Resources
- iMovie 2011: The Essentials
- Adobe Photoshop: The Basics
- Genealogy for Beginners

For more information about the content, schedule and registration of these or other Library instruction activities, users may go to guides.lib.udel.edu/workshops. Library workshops are open to University of Delaware students, faculty and staff. Select workshops are also open to the public. Seating is limited and registration is required. For questions, users may call 302-831-2432 or email lib-workshops@udel.edu.

The Student Multimedia Design Center on the Lower Level of Morris Library is the place for creating multimedia projects. Library staff members are available to assist users. In the Student Multimedia Design Center, users may:

- Borrow laptops, tablets, video camera kits, light kits, audio kits, hard drives and more
- Capture and edit video using video editing software
- Rehearse group presentations using a 45" LCD display monitor with SMART board capabilities
- Create a custom soundtrack for video projects
- Package video projects for delivery on DVD, the web, or iPod
- Add money to UD ID cards or, for non-UD users, purchase Library Copy Cards for printing and copying

The 80 computers, six studios and two hands-on instruction rooms of the Student Multimedia Design Center provide University of Delaware students, faculty and staff access to and assistance with multimedia software and hardware. In the studios, students may rehearse presentations, edit and capture video, use a graphics tablet and record and edit audio. Faculty may reserve GroupLink tables, Room A or Room B for a class session. Clusters of computers are arranged in a flexible environment to allow for collaboration and group work. A wide range of copying and scanning equipment is also available.

For information about the Center, including dates of upcoming orientations, students may come to the Lower Level of Morris Library to the Student Multimedia Design Center's service desk, consult the Student Multimedia Design Center web page at www.lib.udel.edu/multimedia or call 302-831-8832. The service desk staff also can provide assistance with microforms, CD-ROMs, maps, copy services and the Digital Mapping Station (GIS).

For extended assistance with a multimedia project or to request an orientation or multimedia literacy session for a class, contact the Student Multimedia Design Center at 302-831-8832 or use the AskSMDC help form found at www.lib.udel.edu/multimedia/ask_smdc.php

UDSpace – the University of Delaware Library Institutional Repository

udspace.udel.edu

UDSpace is a Library service that provides access to University of Delaware original research through a single interface. UDSpace now includes over 35 “communities” and over 10,000 items that encompass disciplines across the University and include original research in digital form such as articles, working papers, technical reports, conference papers, books, data sets, climatological data, scientific images, historic census data and more. Submission is limited to those materials for which the copyright is owned by the author or the University. The Institutional Repository is available at udspace.udel.edu

Information about placing research in the Institutional Repository is available by calling the Administration office of the Library at 302-831-2231 or by sending an email to Sandra Millard at skm@udel.edu, Gregg Silvis at gregg@udel.edu, William Simpson at wsimpson@udel.edu or Susan Brynteson at susanb@udel.edu

www.udel.edu/library

Books, Videos and More

Searching under this tab on the Library home page allows users to locate many types of resources from the University of Delaware Library via the WorldCat Local database. Users may also use WorldCat Local to locate items from libraries around the world by selecting the “Libraries Worldwide” option that is available in the “Advanced Search” option.

Articles

Where to Find Articles Online

The “Articles” tab on the Library home page limits the search to articles and book chapters from WorldCat Local and a limited number of selected Library databases. To select an individual database from a list of over 360, use the “Databases” search box.

DELICAT

DELICAT is the online catalog of the University of Delaware Library. DELICAT may be used to discover if a specific item is available at the Library. DELICAT includes books, journals, maps, DVDs and video, microforms and government documents.

Databases

The “Articles” tab allows users to search for articles in a limited number of databases available through the WorldCat Local system. A larger selection of over 360 subject specific databases can be found in the Database section on the Library home page. Databases can be accessed by typing their name in the Database search box or by using the alphabetized list beneath the search box. Many databases incorporate the Library’s “Get It!” linking system that retrieves the full text of articles from electronic journals to which the library subscribes.

E-Journals

To determine whether the University of Delaware Library provides access to a specific journal, users should type the journal title into the “E-journals” search box to connect to full-text articles within the journals. More than 85% of University of Delaware Library journal subscriptions are in electronic form.

Research Guides

“Research Guides” point to databases, e-journals and Internet resources in a discipline, and provide time-saving research tips. These key resources have been recommended by librarian subject specialists in that discipline.

ELECTRONIC RESOURCES

Cochrane Library: Collection of Six Health Care Information Databases

The Cochrane Library is a new collection of six databases containing different types of high-quality, independent evidence to inform health care decision-making. Published by John Wiley & Sons, the Cochrane Library is available for licensed use by University of Delaware students, faculty and staff and is accessible from the Library Database page: www2.lib.udel.edu/database/cochrane.html or directly at: www.thecochranelibrary.com/view/0/index.html

The six databases in the Cochrane Library include:

- Cochrane Database of Systematic Reviews;
- Cochrane Central Register of Controlled Trials;
- Cochrane Methodology Register;
- Database of Abstracts of Reviews of Effects;
- Health Technology Assessment Database; and
- National Health Service (NHS) Economic Evaluation Database

The Library also provides online access to ScienceDirect, Medline, Web of Science and Scopus.

Campus-wide Access to Grants Information

For many years the Library has provided access to the Foundation Directory Online from within the Morris Library. Now researchers may access this powerful database from anywhere on campus! The premier database of the Foundation Center, the Foundation Directory, is used nationwide by universities and other nonprofit agencies to identify potential funding sources. The directory searches all private foundations, as well as select corporations and charitable organizations that provide grants.

A complementary database that is also available campus-wide is COS Pivot, which includes funding opportunities from federal and regional governments and other organizations.

Additional databases for locating grants are:

- ▶ Foundation Grants to Individuals Online
- ▶ Grants.gov
- ▶ Philanthropy In/Sight

The Library is a Foundation Center Cooperating Collection, one of more than 470 reference collections located throughout the world. As such, the Library maintains a specialized collection of books and journals on grantsmanship and proposal writing.

Users may request a brief tutorial on funding resources at the Library by making an appointment with the Collection supervisor, Carol Rudisell, at rudisell@udel.edu or by calling 302-831-6942. Information on upcoming Library workshops on grants is online at guides.lib.udel.edu/workshops

Wireless Available throughout Morris Library

Web of Science is one of the most important databases accessible via the University of Delaware Library. It provides references, abstracts and links to full text for more than 12,000 journals in the sciences, social sciences and the arts and humanities. This citation database includes Science Citation Index Expanded (1900-present), Social Sciences Citation Index (1900-present) and Arts & Humanities Citation Index (1975-present).

Web of Science links references to both the online full text of articles in journals and to related articles, thus allowing a broad search across disciplines. The power of Web of Science as a research tool is due to its comprehensive subject coverage and its ability to link related articles through their bibliographic citations. The citation data allows a Library user to begin with a known, relevant journal article and find other, more recent articles that cite it.

Web of Science is the premier database in the "Get It!" service linking to full-text journal articles. Web of Science is available at www.lib.udel.edu/db

ARTstor: Over 1,500,000 Digital Images

The Library subscribes to digital image databases, including ARTstor. University of Delaware students, faculty and staff can incorporate photos or graphics from ARTstor and digital image databases into their course, project or web page created for educational purposes.

The ARTstor Digital Library is comprised of digital images of art objects including architecture, painting, photography, sculpture, prints, decorative arts and design, archaeological and anthropological objects and other materials that are related to visual and material culture. Images are from all time periods—pre-history to 21st century, all cultures and all geographic areas. In addition, ARTstor Commons provides access to over 15,000 images digitized by the University of Delaware Library.

The ARTstor image collection at www.artstor.org contains over 1,500,000 digital images which support teaching and research primarily across the humanities, but also in areas such as civil engineering and the history of science and technology. The size and breadth of this collection make it a valuable instructional resource for all disciplines.

ARTstor database of digital images

Film and Video Collection

The Library Film and Video Collection Department has a collection of more than 32,000 video and film programs located in the Morris Library on the Lower Level. The department includes viewing carrels equipped with a variety of film and video players. New materials are added throughout the year in support of the curriculum.

Film and Video Scheduling & Media Viewing Room

University of Delaware faculty, graduate teaching assistants and professional staff may schedule films and videos for classroom use, research and approved programmatic functions.

A 49-seat viewing room may be scheduled for use by University of Delaware faculty, instructors and authorized teaching assistants for audiovisual presentations to classes.

The Film and Video Collection Department has a Media Research Room available for University of Delaware faculty and instructors who need to research and preview films and videos for academic research and curriculum support.

Film and Video Circulation

Films and videos are available for checkout to University of Delaware faculty, staff, undergraduate and graduate students. Borrowers must present a valid University of Delaware ID card to check out materials.

Some films and videos are restricted due to heavy instructional use and so may be checked out only by faculty, graduate students and professional staff. Undergraduate students and other users may view these restricted items in the Film and Video Collection Department's viewing carrels. CDs and audio cassettes are shelved on the Lower Level near the south elevator and may be checked out at the main circulation desk on the First Floor. The Film and Video Collection Department webpage is www.lib.udel.edu/filmandvideo

Special Collections: Rare Books, Manuscripts and Exhibitions

Special Collections is located on the Second Floor of the Morris Library. Holdings include books, manuscripts, maps, prints, photographs, broadsides, periodicals, pamphlets, ephemera and realia from the 15th to the 21st century. The collections complement the Library general collections with strengths in the arts; English, Irish and American literature; history and Delawareana; horticulture; history of science and technology; and the book arts.

These materials are available for research use by all University of Delaware faculty, staff, students and visiting scholars. Materials do not circulate, and photocopying of bound items is restricted. A laptop computer is available for use in Special Collections.

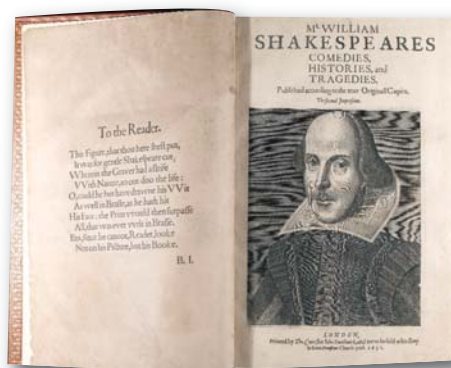

Special Collections holdings are distinguished by their subject matter, age, rarity, association with the author or earlier owners, special illustrations or binding, textual or historical significance, fragile format or other criteria.

Among the collections are manuscripts and significant editions of works by selected 20th century American authors, for example, Alice Dunbar-Nelson, Tennessee Williams and Paul Bowles.

Exhibitions of materials from Special Collections are featured in the Special Collections Exhibition Gallery with two major exhibitions each year and are occasionally accompanied by a published guide or catalog. The exhibitions also contribute to scholarship in a field, interpret aspects of the collections and commemorate historic and cultural events. Adjacent to the Exhibition Gallery is the Lincoln Exhibit which features items from the Lincoln Collection. Online versions of exhibitions, as well as other online resources, including finding aids for many manuscript and archival collections, are available at www.lib.udel.edu/ud/spec via the Special Collections web.

Exhibitions on the First Floor of the Morris Library highlight areas of the Library general collections.

Shakespeare, William, 1564-1616. Mr. William Shakespeares comedies, histories, and tragedies / published according to the true original copies. London : Printed by Tho. Cotes, for John Smethwicke, and are to be sold at his shop in Saint Dunstons Church-yard, 1632.

The Mark Samuels Lasner Collection

The Mark Samuels Lasner Collection is housed in the Morris Library and is associated with the Special Collections Department. The collection focuses on British literature and art of the period 1850 to 1900, with an emphasis on the Pre-Raphaelites and on the writers and illustrators of the 1890s. Its holdings comprise 9,000 first and other editions (including signed and association copies), manuscripts, letters, works on paper and ephemera. Although the materials in the Mark Samuels Lasner Collection are not listed in DELCAT, access is available by appointment.

For more information Library users may call 302-831-3250, email marks@udel.edu or visit www.lib.udel.edu/ud/spec/msl/index.htm on the Library web.

LIBRARY COLLECTIONS

Librarian Subject Area Responsibilities

Librarians are responsible for collection development and library instruction in subject areas that support the curriculum and research needs of the University of Delaware. All suggestions for books, journals, media, electronic media, microforms and journal backfiles should be forwarded to the librarian responsible for the subject area. All requests from faculty for discipline specific instruction should be referred to subject librarians. The following is a list of librarians who are subject specialists and make recommendations for the purchase of both traditional and electronic library resources. Faculty who wish to make suggestions regarding desired Library materials are encouraged to contact the appropriate subject specialist directly.

Copying and Printing in the Library

UD students, faculty and staff: Use University of Delaware ID card.

Non-UD users: Use public computers on the First Floor. Purchase a blank copy card at the Student Multimedia Design Center on the Lower Level and add value, or from Copy Card dispensers on the First Floor.

Add money to cards at the Value Transfer Station on the Lower Level or at www.udel.edu/ud1flex or at the Student Multimedia Design Center desk.

Staff may also make copies for users for a fee.
