

The University of Delaware Library
Introduces and Welcomes

Jesse R. Erickson

Jesse R. Erickson was recently appointed as the University of Delaware Library's Postdoctoral Researcher in Special Collections and Digital Humanities, effective September 1, 2016. In this newly established position Erickson will be conducting digital scholarship while promoting collections to students through a joint teaching appointment with the English Department.

Erickson comes to us from the University of California, Los Angeles where he worked as a bibliographic researcher in the Manuscripts Division of the Charles E. Young Research Library and, later, as an archival processor for the Center for Primary Research and Training and the Center for Oral History Research. The University of California, Los Angeles is also the institution where he earned his doctorate in Information Studies and his master of library and information science at the University's Graduate School of Education and Information Studies. Formerly, he has served as the programs chair for the Southern California Chapter of the American Printing History Association.
